County, Jubilee reach compromise

BY ED LEPOMA

A compromise has been reached, but not yet signed by all parties that might allow the Jubilee Casino to leave its berth at Bayou Caddy and move to Greenville, Miss.

"We have an agreement," Hancock County Tax Assessor Eddie Murtagh confirmed late Wednesday.

"We'll get all the money they owe us or they won't move. You can bank on that," he vowed.

Details of the agreement that has been ironed out were disclosed via telephone by Sam Keyes, the Jackson-based attorney who was hired by the county supervisors and Murtagh to assure the Jubilee barge doesn't leave owing back property taxes due since 1994 and those assessed for 1995.

Keyes said he worked with David Grisham, a Jackson-based attorney representing Alpha Gulf Coast, which operates the Jubilee.

The agreement was being sent overnight to Alpha officials in New York for their signatures.

Under the terms "agreed upon by all parties," Keyes said the parent Alpha Hospitality Corp., which owns the Jubilee, would pay the county $60,000 in cash, probably as early as tomorrow.

The agreement is structured so as to specify they (the Jubilee barge) will not leave the dock until they post a personal surety bond sufficient to cover the remaining taxes owed for 1994 and 1995," Keyes said.

That figure is estimated at around $581,000, and Keyes said the bond would be underwritten by a firm qualified to do business in Mississippi.

Alpha also agrees to pay a penalty of one percent a month for each month the total balance is outstanding, Keyes said.

Keyes said he would have rather gotten the county more money up front, but the $60,000 was a negotiated figure.

During negotiations, Keyes said Alpha officials "convinced everybody that they do have a cash flow problem."

Keyes said Alpha is also being allowed some time before posting the costly surety bond.

"We agreed to wait until they finalize the purchase of the Cotton Club," Keyes said. "If the deal falls through, they may not make a vessel swap, and they may not leave."

Even if Alpha posts a surety bond, Keyes said, "The county has reserved any right it may have to enjoin the barge from moving for any reason the county might have."

Sandy Freedman, Alpha's New York attorney who is handling negotiations for the purchase of the Cotton Club, did not return phone calls. He told the Echo last week that the deal was "not yet finalized," but he expected a negotiated purchase soon.

Jubilee General Manager John Kingsbury and Alpha Gulf Coast's chief operating officer, Tom Aro, also did not return the Echo's calls.

Harbor Drive protected from transfer site

BY ED LEPOMA

County garbage collector Joey Boudin will not be allowed to build a transfer site on property he owns on Harbor Drive.

And, he must go through a lengthy permitting process by environmental agencies if he even wants to wash his sanitation trucks on the land.

The news was revealed in a meeting Wednesday when Boudin came face-to-face with angry Bayou Phillips residents who want to stop him from putting anything on his 10-acre tract.

Boudin says he will go forward with plans to erect a maintenance shed and marshalling yard on the tract "unless somebody wants to buy it, and give me back the money I've already gotten invested in it."

Citizens came to the Hancock County Solid Waste District's regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon to vent complaints about Boudin's service, and to express concern over his plans to move his operation from Spruce Street to his land fronting about 1800 feet on Harbor Drive.

After the hearing, District Chairman Les Fillingame said the county and district cannot stop Boudin from building a maintenance shed and marshalling yard on his property, but "putting a transfer site (where garbage is taken before being dumped at a landfill) would be in violation of the county's solid waste plan."

In the meeting, Fillingame also offered to approach Trans-

America, which operates the Standard rubbish site, and will operate the landfill for the county, to see if company officials would establish a transfer station for Boudin at Standard.

Fillingame said Boudin would face a lengthy permitting process if he wanted to wash any vehicles on his expansion site.

He said the district would also await the outcome of citizens' complaints to the Office of Pollution Control that Boudin was washing trucks on his present site in violation of state environmental laws, and to charges he has already dumped on the new site in violation of state laws.

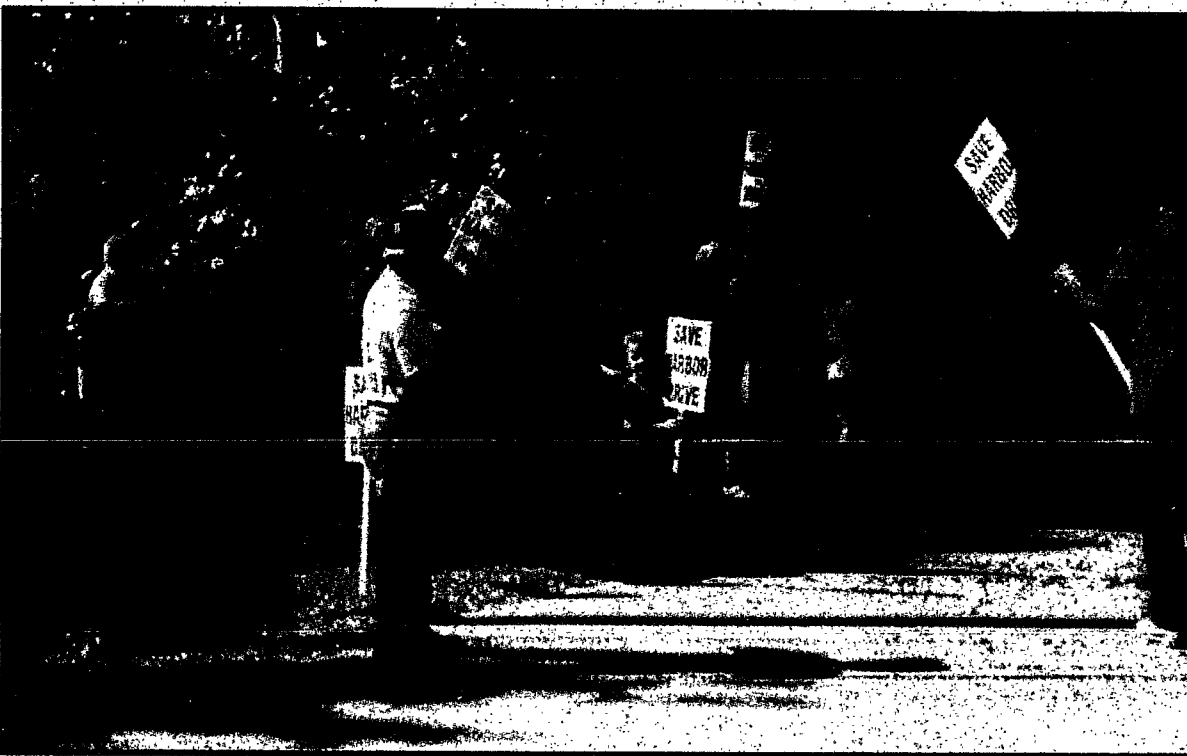

Wayne Miller, an engineer and a Bayou Phillips resident, put the controversy in perspective when he told Fillingame and others that neighborhood suspicion arose when Boudin began clearing the site without telling any neighbors what was planned.

Miller said residents became alarmed when Boudin's trucks allegedly began dumping shingles on the site, then when he allegedly began digging a pit on the premises.

Miller had letters from Mike Egan of DEQ's Office of Pollution Control confirming that Boudin "is currently in the process of trying to get his property...permitted as a garbage transfer site."

Conrad Stacks of DEQ's Solid Waste Division also wrote Miller that Boudin "has no record of any permits or application for permit" to do

Neighborhood Protest

More than 50 residents along Harbor Drive in Bayou Phillips (above) staged a peaceful demonstration Saturday in efforts to stop trash hauler Joey Boudin from putting a maintenance shop and truck marshalling yard across from their homes. Residents say Boudin put up a "For Sale" sign (right) on the property where he plans to expand, hours before they staged a protest. Boudin says if he doesn't get a good price for the 10-acre site, he'll go forward with plans to build on it. (Echo staff photo by Ed Lepoma)

Annexation 'dead' in Pass

BY ED LEPOMA

Newly elected Mayor Billy McDonald says emphatically the city will not appeal a recent court ruling that said Pass Christian has no good reasons for annexing Pass Christian Isles and Henderson Point.

"As far as I'm concerned, this issue is dead, dead, dead," McDonald told the Echo late Wednesday.

"Definitely, there will be no appeal," McDonald said. The new mayor also vowed he would take a "serious, hard look" at Pass Christian's daily expenses in light of "irresponsible spending" charges leveled against the past administration by the special judge who heard the annexation case, and ruled last Friday.

McDonald said he met with City Comptroller Sandy Adams Wednesday, and has asked her to pinpoint, as closely as possible, what the lengthy annexation battle has cost the city.

"She estimates about $130,000, but I don't think that will be the final total,"

McDonald said. "We'll have to wait and see."

The mayor said he also wants Adams to move immediately to implement "a line-by-line accounting of spending by each city department."

"We're going to have a line-by-line system for spending," said McDonald.

"Each month, I want to know what each department is spending, and what is that percentage of his yearly budget."

McDonald said if he feels a department head is overspending, "he would be called in to explain the situation."

"I can understand an emergency situation," said McDonald. "Those cases will be handled on an individual basis."

The city's overspending and budget inaccuracies dating back to 1991 came under strong attack last week when special Judge J.P. Sugg ruled against Pass Christian's latest effort to annex Pass Christian Isles and Henderson Point.

"The judge spelled out some serious inaccuracies in the way we are handling our day-to-day business. I'm concerned," he said.

Sugg, a justice on the Mississippi Supreme Court, said, in his ruling, "The city is unable to render adequate municipal service to its own citizens without help from Harrison County."

He said testimony in the trial showed, "The city has consistently overspent its budget and overspent its revenues." And, he added, "The court has no reason to believe it is going to meet the budget that was adopted for the ensuing fiscal year."

The 1995-1996 operating budget has undergone two revisions before McDonald was elected Oct. 3 to fill Mayor Ted Lawyer's unexpired term.

It now shows estimated revenues of $4.1 million, and the city proposes to spend $3.7 million, leaving the rest in reserve. It was a budget authored mainly by Ward 1 Alderman Jeff Emerson, but he couldn't vote on it because he

Improvements planned to Highway 90 in Bay

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Some $2.5 million in improvements to Highway 90 are planned locally, Bay St. Louis City Council members learned Tuesday, including upgrades to area drainage facilities.

Council was briefed on the plans by Mayor Eddie Favre, based on a recent meeting with district highway engineer Rick Turner.

Improvements, to begin in the next six months, include:

--Drainage improvements on Highway 90 in the Uman Street area, near Hancock Medical Center and the Seube and Bouslog streets area. City officials will determine if other areas should be added to that list. --New turning lanes off the highway will be placed where city officials feel they are critical.

--Signalization at the Highway 90 bridge and Beach Boulevard, and Dunbar Avenue will be upgraded.

In Memoriam

In Loving Memory
 of
CAROLINE KIEFER
 1906—May 24, 1974

Happy Birthday, Mom. Once again we honor you and all the good memories you gave us. We remember your telling us how your education was cut short at the fifth grade level. We also remember that through your interest you and Neil DuComb founded the Industrial Trade Magazine, The Mississippi Monitor, of which you were named editor; how you strived to promote industrialization of coastal Mississippi and development of a deep-water port in Hancock County; your becoming Commerce Chamber manager in Hancock County; your being appointed to the position of international trade commissioner by the President of the United States (you were the first woman in the history of our country accorded this honor); your being named to Who's Who in American Women and later named to Who's Who in Women of the World; then in 1973 being honored by the legislature and governor as Outstanding Mississippian of the Year.

The Good Lord only knows what you might have done had you completed high school. You were charming, intelligent, down-to-earth, loyal, vigorous, a wonderful mother, friend, confidante and wife. You gave to anyone in need. Your generosity knew no racial barriers. You really were years ahead of your time.

All daughters-in-law, grandchildren, great-grandchildren join together with your surviving sons to say we shall always remember and love "Caroline."

Your sons

Judge rips Pass for overspending

BY ED LEPOMA

In his ruling against Pass Christian's annexation last week, Special Judge R.P. Sugg was highly critical of the city's past overspending.

Eight pages of his 28-page ruling were devoted to past spending and shoddy accounting methods uncovered during the administration of former Mayor Ted Lawyer and the Board of Aldermen. He also took a swipe at auditors with Moore and Powell, who are hired to monitor city finances.

"During the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1992 and ending Sept. 30, 1993, the city spent $1,232,863 more than its budget," Sugg said testimony showed in the trial.

"This was far in excess of the 110 percent permitted by the statute... Every category in the budget was overspent," he said.

The trial produced a letter showing the state auditor had reviewed the 1993 audit report, and warned the city could be subjected to personal liability because they exceeded the spending limit. The state auditor pointed out that "cash balances were dangerously low."

The auditor noted, "the mayor and aldermen were making uninformed decisions relative to conducting the financial affairs of the city, that the city had failed to properly account for fixed assets, that a number of funds had deficit balances, and the city had no long term strategic plan."

Sugg said court testimony showed to date, "the city has not restored its cash balances to a safe level. It has not properly inventoried its fixed assets. It has not adopted a six-year plan with pro forma budgets."

The 1994 audit report by Moore and Powell shows expenditures exceeded the budget by $708,565, and exceeded revenues by $726,066.

"This would be a deficit balance if proceeds of a shortfall note for $300,000 had not been placed in the general fund near the end of the fiscal year," Sugg noted.

Court records showed that Moore and Powell auditor Steve Dockens testified that in August of 1994, tax collections were $275,000 below estimates, so the city borrowed $300,000 under a short fall note.

Sugg said the taxes were actually collected at the city's property tax sale at the end of August.

"There was no shortfall at the end of the fiscal year," Sugg said. "It appears the city should have treated this as a tax anticipation loan rather than a short fall note."

He pointed out the note is being retired through a special tax levy, but making the loan violates state law.

Although the estimated shortfall was $275,000, Sugg said Dockens testified in rebuttal that the city borrowed the additional $25,000 under the 110 percent rule.

"Section 27-39-333 does not authorize borrowing in an amount in excess of the estimated shortfall," Sugg said.

The judge said the 1994 audit report also showed that the city has not been in compliance with the revenue bond covenants.

"The required balance was $249,700, but the city only had a balance of $115,248 in this fund," Sugg said.

Sugg said audit reports showed overspending dating back to 1991, when expenditures exceeded revenues by $350,420.

In 1992, he noted the audit report disclosed that "expenditures exceeded budget amounts by $313,446 and expenditures exceeded revenues by $723,765."

In the 1992 audit, Sugg said it was disclosed that HUD (The department of Housing and Urban Development) forgave the city $613,720 in delinquent interest and rescheduled payments of $494,000 delinquent principal to the years 2002 through 2005.

Court records also showed in a letter dated last Aug. 2, Moore and Powell advised the city, "although the budget originally estimated a $120,000 surplus, the expenditures would result in no surplus."

Sugg said auditors said this was due to unexpected costs incurred during the early part of the fiscal year.

"The unexpected costs were bills that simply were hidden and unknown to the city, showing that it needs to have an encumbrance program in place," Sugg said. "To date, it has not adopted an encumbrance procedure."

The judge was also critical of the city's property tax hikes imposed from 1991 through the coming year.

Testimony showed millage dedicated to the general fund has increased from 40.66 mills to 55 mills, an increase of over 35 percent. The millage dedicated to the library has increased from 1 mill to 1.85 mills.

The city note fund has increased from 2 mills to 9.7 mills; millage dedicated to the city bond fund decreased from 2.75 mills to 1.97 mills and to the special sinking fund from 6.7 mills to zero.

"The total millage (since 1991) increased from 53.11 mills to 68.57 mills. Even with tax increases, the city has not been able to provide for the needs of its citizens without assistance from the county," Sugg said.

He said since 1991, the Harrison County Board of Supervisors has contributed over $496,000 to Pass Christian in cash and services, which went mainly to help finance drainage and other improvements.

Bay schools to open tomorrow

BY RICHARD MEEK

Friday will not be a holiday for students in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District as originally planned.

Superintendent Paul Tisdale announced Monday that because the threat of Hurricane Opal forced the closure of schools last week, the makeup day will be tomorrow, which was originally scheduled as a staff development day for teachers. Tisdale said the development day has been rescheduled for Feb. 21.

Tisdale also announced during a school board meeting that the district has entered into an agreement with local law enforcement agencies to help sniff out illegal drugs at Bay High School. He said the Bay St. Louis and Waveland police departments will randomly send canine units to the school to sniff lockers and other areas for drugs.

"We are not out to get anybody, we just want to assure that our schools are drug free," Tisdale said.

The board also heard from Ron Skinner, of the Bay High Touchdown Club, who expressed concern about coaches driving the team buses to athletic events.

"I'm not knocking (the coaches) driving," Skinner said. "It takes a good deal of concentration to coach and a lot of concentration to drive a bus, especially over unfamiliar roads or roads that are not well-lit."

"I think it puts our children in great jeopardy, although it's not intentional. We're either cheating our kids from the full attention of coaching or slighting them in safety."

Board members agreed to investigate the possibility of finding other certified drivers to use for athletic events. Laidlaw provides transportation to the district's students, but the school system bought two new buses during the summer for athletic and other events. It is a practice at most high schools for coaches to drive team buses.

Skinner also asked the board about enlarging the field house, so coaches would be able to move out of cramped quarters and the weight room and other areas could be expanded. Board member Richard Flowers said the funds are committed for the upcoming school year, but "we'll be talking about it in the spring."

Skinner reported that the club paid for and installed an air conditioner in the field house, as well as storage and video tape cabinets. Club members also repaired some of the weight equipment, he said.

Skinner said this season has been one of the most successful in terms of season ticket sales, which has allowed for those improvements.

In other matters:

Architect Kevin Fitzpatrick reported that the much-delayed addition to North Bay Elementary should be completed by early November, nearly two months after the original completion date. Building design and other complications have caused the delays.

Fitzpatrick said the Waveland addition is "on track" and should be completed by its target date of Nov. 26.

The board accepted the bid of Southwest Track, Inc., of $219,000 for a new track at Tiger Stadium. The board had originally allocated $220,000 for the project.

Hope Haven to hold Concert in Park

Hope Haven will hold its first annual Octoberfest Concert in the Park October 21, 6-10 p.m.

The free event will feature live music, a costume contest, an art pumpkin auction, apple bobbing, table/blanket decorating contest, tarot card readings, marshmallow stringing, storytelling by Bookends, skits performed by the Hancock County Historical Society, Dunk the Politician, and — of course — plenty of refreshments: German food, hotdogs, popcorn and drinks.

The Concert in the Park, which Hope Haven is sponsoring in association with the Bay St. Louis Development Association, will be in City Park, behind Old City Hall on 2nd Street.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Saturday was a very beautiful day for the annual March of Dimes Walk-A-Thon.

Groups, organizations and individuals all seemed to have a good time walking for such a wonderful cause.

The March of Dimes is a very important organization, and I am glad so many participated in the walk Saturday.

I would like to mention the names of some of the groups and organizations, but I know I would miss several, as there were so many; so it is best I just mention the group.

A special thank you to each and every one, including those who made pledges to the walkers.

I am told some $12,000-plus was raised, and your help means the March of Dimes can continue its very important work in this country.

Bay St. Louis will keep its transit service, but that agreement appears to be only for a six-month period.

The service will be available Monday through Saturday, with elimination of late-night runs.

The simple bottom line to the whole matter is that there is a need for more people to use the trolley service.

Since the trolley service started in Bay St. Louis I have seen several groups have parties and celebrate special events on a trolley.

I am hoping there will be more patronage for the trolley service, as it can be a very important factor in helping promote more tourism in our area.

A community cannot offer too many services for its residents and visitors.

In case you are wondering, Saturday afternoon Harold Masson called to tell me he and Alice had returned from their cruise.

Harold said the ship's captain dodged the storm, but they were in some pretty high waves during the week.

This was the Masson's 33rd cruise, and Harold reported it was the roughest yet.

He said they had a good time and ate some real good food.

I realize this will be my first comments on football this season in my column.

I usually comment on the local high school teams and try to encourage good support for the teams.

The high school season is past the halfway mark, and the local teams have been doing their best each Friday night.

In action Friday night, all three Hancock County high school football teams will be at home.

The Tigers of Bay High will play host to the Maroon Tide of Picayune.

Bay High is 2-4 for the season and will be going up against powerful Picayune. The home field advantage for Bay High could help the Tigers in pulling a big upset.

The Hawks of Hancock are 3-3 for the season and will be at home on Friday, too, when they host Petal in a conference tilt.

This appears to be the year for Petal, while last week Hancock looked good in edging Oak Grove in a conference tilt.

In a perfect game, the young Hawks could stay in the win column.

The Rock-a-chaws of St. Stanislaus, at 3-3, are having their best season in many years.

Friday night Stanislaus will play host to Oak Grove in a conference tilt.

The Rocks could move up into the win column with a good game against Oak Grove.

The Pirates of Pass Christian are having rough going this season after a very good season last year.

The Pirates really need a win to change the momentum.

Pass Christian at 0-6 will travel to Forrest County Friday seeking its first victory of the season.

Our local high school football teams need good fan support, and Friday would be a good time to get to the game.

I know the Hawks, Tigers and Rocks would like to be supported by a stadium of supporters.

I hope to see you at the game. Remember, kick-offs are at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

FEMA announces agencies to give Opal assistance

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) announces assistance is still needed by Hurricane Opal victims.

Persons interested in helping are encouraged to make cash donations to any number of recognized voluntary agencies.

Unless a donor is able to give large quantities of bulk food, such donated items as food or clothing require voluntary agencies to spend money and people hours for collection, shipment and warehouse operations. However, cash donations allow agencies to purchase exactly what is needed and to avoid duplication and waste.

The FEMA toll-free donations hotline is 800-342-1100. Other voluntary agencies accepting donations are: American Red Cross, 800-HELP-NOW; The Salvation Army, 800-SAL-ARMY; Lutheran Ministries Church, 914-921-0473; Inter-Lutheran Disaster Response, 610-395-6891; United Methodist Committee on Relief, 800-841-1235; Nazarene Disaster Response, 800-846-2269; Catholic Charities USA, 703-549-1390; Christian Reformed World Relief Committee, 800-848-5818; Church of Brethren General Board, 410-635-8731; Church World Service and Witness, 800-872-0968; Society of St. Vincent de Paul, 314-576-3993; Adventist Community Services, 800-253-3000; and Christian Disaster Response, 800-545-4188.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Accentuate the positive with both students and teachers

To the Editor:

I read with interest the recent letters in this column concerning the non-graded class at North Bay Elementary. You see, a little girl I love is a member of the class.

Although I was a teacher and school librarian for 32 years, I had no direct experience with non-graded classrooms, so I will express no opinions in that regard. It is something else entirely that I wish to say, but those recent letters have encouraged me to say it.

As I have already said, I was a member of the teaching profession for many years before retiring, and I came to feel that it is an integral part of every parent's responsibility to take an active and daily interest in their children's school life and activities.

Many, many years ago, I believe it was Bing Crosby who did a song called "Accentuate the Positive." Such, I feel, should be the role of parents. If your children are doing well, let them know that you are proud of them. Tell them in so many words. They need to hear it. While you're at it, tell them you love them. They need to hear that, too.

On the other hand, if you feel that your children could be doing better, make an appointment for a teacher conference and find out what you can do to help. Don't be indifferent. Don't ignore what's happening at school. Your child will know it and feel it.

Now, let me say a word on behalf of your children's teachers. Teaching is a difficult, stressful life. Teachers carry a heavy load of responsibility and they need your encouragement.

It's within your power to make their job easier. Accentuate the positive. If you feel that your child's teacher is working hard to do a good job, find a way to thank her or him. Express your appreciation in words and action.

Let me share one experience with you. Many years ago, I taught fourth grade for a number of years. Early one morning before school started for the day, the father of one of my students had occasion to come to the school office on a matter of business. He could have gone away immediately when he was finished, but he took the time to walk his son to our classroom, which happened to be at the far end of the building from the office.

What that Dad said to me went a little like this: "I wanted to come tell you that my boy looks forward to coming to school every morning. He wants to see what you are going to do that's new and different each day. I wanted you to know that I appreciate your work."

Then that father hurried away to go to his work. That small incident occurred nearly 30 years ago, but I never forgot it. That's how much it meant to me.

Encourage your children. Encourage their teachers. They are doing a tough, tough job. Accentuate the positive. Watch your school systems. Always remember that the teachers, the principals, the school board members, the superintendents, and everyone connected to your schools work for you and your children. The schools belong to you and your children.

Sincerely,
Sue A. Osbourn

Does anyone know how to get good government?

Dear Editor:

At this time last year we, the citizens of Waveland, had great hopes the pending election would bring us a more responsive mayor and aldermen. Not!

As president of the Senior Citizens Club of Waveland, I arranged an open forum for all candidates. Well, the voters spoke, and we have all new faces, but the same old broken promises.

Streets are in such poor condition still, and no signs of improved drainage. It makes you wonder where all those millions of tax dollars go. We know they gave themselves fat raises.

Now Sea Coast Echo headlines say Waveland will run a deficit... that's a disgrace!

The current budget is nearly double what it was in 1990, yet no progress, only yakkity-yak and increased costs of water and sewerage.

Does anyone know how to get good government?

Regards,
Royce P. Kaupp

Governor proclaims Crime Prevention Month

Gov. Kirk Fordice has proclaimed October as Crime Prevention Month in Mississippi.

"The personal injury, financial loss and community deterioration resulting from crime are intolerable and need to be addressed by the whole community," Fordice said.

"Effective crime prevention programs excel because of partnerships among law enforcement, other government agencies, civic groups, schools and individuals as they help to rebuild a sense of community responsibility and shared pride."

The governor urged "all citizens, government agencies, public and private institutions and businesses to increase their participation in our community's prevention efforts and thereby promote good citizenship."

Mississippi's effort, in cooperation with the National Crime Prevention Council, a non-profit organization to help prevent crime and build safer communities, will include a wide range of promotional activities.

Donald O'Cain, executive director, Mississippi Division of Public Safety Planning, noted that virtually everybody — children, teenagers and adults — can take important steps to help prevent crime.

He made the following suggestions:

— Establish a neighborhood watch or community patrol, working with police.

— Be sure streets and homes are well-lighted.

— Help to ensure that all youth in the neighborhood have positive ways to spend their spare time through organized recreation, tutoring programs, part-time work and volunteer activities.

— Build a partnership with police, focused upon solving problems instead of reacting to a crisis. Make it possible for neighbors to report suspicious activity without fear of retaliation.

— Take advantage of "safety in numbers" to hold rallies, marches and other group activities to show you're determined to drive out crime and dangerous drugs.

— Involve everyone in cleaning up the neighborhood. Graffiti, litter, abandoned motor vehicles and run-down buildings tell criminals that you don't care about where you live or each other.

— Ask local officials for new approaches to getting criminals out of your building or neighborhood.

— Work with schools and recreation officials to establish drug-free zones.

— Develop and share a phone list of local organizations that can provide counseling, job training, guidance and other services that can help neighbors.

It could be a best seller. But it's free.

Hancock Medical Center initiates direct dialing

A new direct dialing system at Hancock Medical Center enables the caller to contact a hospital department without going through the switchboard.

"The result is quicker access to our ancillary services," said human resources and marketing director Audrey Dunn. "A caller with a question for the physical therapy department can eliminate need for manual handling of that call through the switchboard by dialing direct."

The new system will significantly impact the number of calls routed through the switchboard, said Dunn.

Direct telephone numbers are available to dial patient rooms, but must be obtained from the patient to ensure privacy during the hospital stay.

A direct employment line will be operational Nov. 1, and will provide instant access to job opportunities. The recorded message will inform the caller of qualifications required and supporting documents necessary for each position. The caller will also be directed where and how to apply for a particular job.

"Persons with questions are still encouraged to call the hospital's main telephone number for information," said Dunn.

The new system is one of the process improvement activities underway at Hancock Medical Center. A new employee parking lot was recently completed to allow for more visitor parking spaces at the hospital's main entrance. Other projects to improve the quality of services provided at HMC are ongoing.

The direct telephone number is 467-8600.

Christian Women's luncheon

Elisabeth Elliot, Christian missionary and conference participant, will be guest speaker at a Gulf Coast Christian Women's luncheon at the Broadwater Beach Hotel Tuesday, Nov. 14.

She did missionary work in Ecuador, South America for 11 years working with three different Indian tribes. Her first husband, Jim Elliot, and four other American missionaries were killed in 1956 by Auka Indians. She later returned and ministered to these same Indians.

Since 1963 she has been a well-respected speaker, writer and professor at Gordon-Conwell Seminary. She is the mother of a daughter and grandmother of seven.

Her radio program, "Gateway to Joy," is heard Monday through Friday on about 200 stations.

She has authored several books, including Through Gates of Splendor, Shadow of the Almighty, Passion and Purity, Loneliness, and The Shaping of a Christian Family. She resides in Massachusetts with her husband Lars Gren.

Tickets will be available at Southern Charm Hallmark, Diamondhead Plaza, Diamondhead; Jeanne Anne's Hallmark, Shieldsboro Square, Bay St. Louis and Bookends, 111 Hwy. 90, Bay St. Louis.

The tickets are $12. None will be sold at the door. The program will be over at 2 p.m.

Opal donations

The Salvation Army is on the scene throughout Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi, where severe damage caused by Hurricane Opal has forced hundreds of people from their homes. The Salvation Army is quickly rendering assistance to hurricane victims by serving hot meals, providing clothing and shelter. The Salvation Army urgently needs financial help.

Donations earmarked "Hurricane Opal" can be sent to: P. O. Box 1346, Dothan, AL 36302 or sent to your local Salvation Army office. All donations are tax deductible.

Ten free shade trees

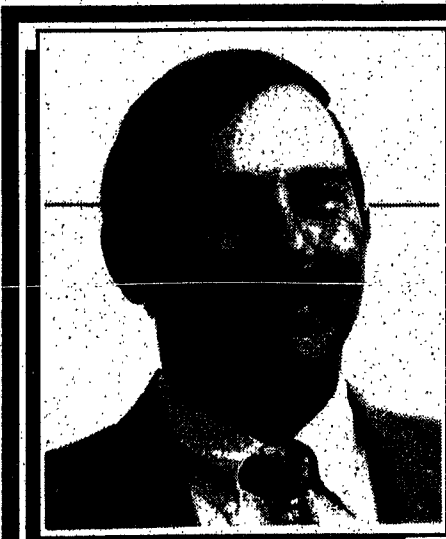

Ten free shade trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during October 1995.

"The ten shade trees are Sugar Maple, Red Oak, Pin Oak, Green Ash, Thornless Honeylocust, Weeping Willow, River Birch, Tuliptree, Silver Maple and Red Maple.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between Nov. 1 and

Dec. 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The six- to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to: Shade Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by Oct. 31.

JOEY BOUDIN RESPONDS ...

Dear Garbage Generators in Bayou Phillips Estates,

Over the past few weeks, in case you haven't been following the media, we started clearing a tract of land located in the county at Bayou Phillips, outside of city limits.

We started off by clearing the land, ditching and digging a fish pond for cheaper fill dirt.

When the pit filled in with rain water, we backed one of our septic tank pump trucks up to the hole to pump out the water, so we could continue digging.

At that time, some of the unemployed neighbors in the area got the idea that we were dumping sewage illegally and reported us to the D.E.Q. and State Health Department.

Both departments came out and gave us a clean report.

After that didn't stop progress, they said we were dumping garbage and the land was a dumpsite, the departments came back out and again, gave us a clean report.

Now they are signing petitions and spending time walking the streets, picketing instead of doing something constructive, like cleaning up their own yards or job hunting.

When we first started to clear the land, one of the ring leaders asked what we were doing. When I told him, he said he didn't want our shop in this area because we employ blacks.

I told him he was out of line and that he was trespassing. Now, he heads the petitioners.

This is not the answer, nor is it a good way to keep garbage prices down.

Right now, we offer the cheapest garbage service in the state. Only because we operate locally and beat the two larger companies' prices by over $100,000 annually.

This is a big savings for our county and a needed industry that creates jobs and circulates money. Boudin's Waste has been hauling garbage in Hancock County since 1963, before most of the people who are complaining left Louisiana and moved here.

Now we are up to 16 trucks, servicing over 25,000 households, plus hundreds of commercial customers and most importantly, employ 25 Hancock County residents. We service Hancock, Pearl River counties and St. Tammany Parish.

When some of these people moved into this community and built $100,000 houses, I could count them on one hand; what were they thinking? Didn't they realize there was no building code or zoning regulations?

I have lived in the Bayou Phillips area for seven years, parking trucks and running the family's business without any complaints.

I was awarded the county contract over a year and a half ago and have had no complaints until we started the new larger maintenance and office facility.

Sure, the trucks will have some smell, but being in the middle of ten acres, the nearest house will be hundreds of feet away, making it impossible to smell. It's not the trucks that stink, it is your garbage that smells.

I will do everything possible to keep the trucks and facility clean, attractive and deodorized.

If you know where the site is located, you know it will probably increase the property value of most of the establishments that are in Bayou Phillips.

Also, to set the record straight, we are following ALL federal, state and county regulations.

To clear up some false accusations, saying their garbage was left intentionally by our crews, I promise you that if their garbage was out on the edge of the street on pickup day, we would have done our job.

They also are complaining that we don't have a building permit, they are right, because we are not building yet, just landscaping.

I assure you I will continue to do my best to make sure my trucks are there, doing their best through storms, high waters, hurricanes, holidays, etc.

My older customers know our policy is that rain, shine, sleet or snow, the garbage has got to go!

I have been doing my best the past few years to help with community projects, fairs, festivals, clean-ups and other non-profit involvements.

Now I am talked about and picketed as if a criminal. Hopefully, we can work out our conflict and I am willing to meet with the people of Bayou Phillips, or their representatives, and discuss their problems sensibly without all the screaming and hollering.

Also, I ask all of our customers that has, or have had any problem with our service in any way, to give us a call because we want to continue to offer the best, most reliable, most affordable service available in the industry.

Sincerely,

Joey Boudin, Owner

AIDS prayer service

The Right Reverend A. C. Marble Jr., bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Mississippi, will officiate at a prayer and healing service for those affected by HIV infection or AIDS at St. Peter's by-the-Sea in Gulfport Saturday, Oct. 21 at 6 p.m.

The service is open to everyone regardless of denomination or affiliation, the only requirement being a need for the healing power of God's love.

At a similar service in Jackson last September, Bishop Marble stated in his sermon, "The church of God is not a building; it is the people in that building. If the people of God are the church and the church is the body of Christ and one of those people has AIDS, then the entire church, the body of Christ, has AIDS."

The service is not designed to win converts or make people "repent" or bring forth miraculous cures. Instead, it is a service to remind people that God's love is unconditional and that He is present even in the midst of this epidemic. Too often people with AIDS have been cut off from their faith communities and made to feel unworthy and unacceptable. It is hoped that those people will come to this service for spiritual healing and reconciliation.

HIV infection and AIDS impacts not only those infected, but those affected as well. For every person infected there are at least 20 others; husbands, wives, lovers, parents, children, friends and co-workers whose spirits are battered or broken by the disease.

Often they, too, are in need of prayers and healing. It is hoped that they will come to this service to remember and grieve for those who have died, to pray for those who are sick and to embrace one another in hope for a cure.

The service will include prayers, music, scripture readings, communion and the traditional laying on of hands. During the service an intercessory prayer list of those who are sick and those who are infected will be read aloud.

People wanting to have their names or a loved one's name on the prayer list should call St. Peter's at 863-2611. If anonymity is a concern, a first name is sufficient.

The Gulf Coast of Mississippi has the second highest numbers of HIV infection and AIDS in the state. Only Metro Jackson and its surrounding counties have a higher incidence of the disease.

It is no longer a gay white disease or a black addict's disease, it is simply a disease that is now the leading cause of death among the age group 22 to 44. It continues to spread rapidly in Mississippi and as yet there is no cure.

Because of the incidence of HIV infection and AIDS on the Coast, the Mississippi Episcopal AIDS Committee decided to target that area for a healing service like those held in the Jackson area for the last four years.

The Rev. Linda L. Lowry of St. Thomas, Diamondhead, a member of the committee, presented the plan to the Gulf Coast Episcopal Churches, and the Rev. Jon A. Caridad, rector of St. Peter's, offered that church.

For additional information about the service, contact Caridad at 863-2611, or Ed Oliver, chairman of the Episcopal AIDS Committee, at 601-353-7085.

Helping with Sofia

USMGC offers session

The University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast will offer "Emotional Problems in the Classroom: Informal Assessment and Coping Strategies" at the Jackson County Center October 7 and 14 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dr. Darlys Alford, assistant professor of psychology at USMGC, will teach.

The course is designed to help teachers who are not formally trained as counselors to better cope with children who come to school emotionally distraught from difficulties they experience at home or in the community. Additionally, course participants will learn to make effective referrals and work cooperatively with counseling professionals.

The class, offered through USMGC's Division of Continuing Education, is a one-hour credit course. Students must be fully admitted to the university prior to registration.

For information on the class, call (601) 865-4508 or (601) 497-3636. For admission or registration information, call (601) 865-4503.

Member of Parliament to deliver lecture

The University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast will host Tony Banks, a distinguished and often controversial member of the British Parliament, for a free lecture October 12.

Banks will discuss "British Politics and Britain's Future in Europe" during his lecture at USMGC's Hardy Hall Auditorium on the Gulf Park campus in Long Beach. The lecture is free and open to the public. It begins at 7 p.m.

A member of Parliament since 1983, Banks represents Newham North West, a working-class area of London. He is an outspoken member of Britain's Labour party and has served as party whip. He also is one of the anchor men on the British television program "Crosstalk."

His lecture is presented by USMGC's Division of Continuing Education and USM's College of International and Continuing Education.

For information, call Pat Smith at (601) 865-4511.

USMGC offers classes

Computer classes planned at USM's Gulf Coast Campus include:

"Works"—the Microsoft Works program. Oct. 10 and 12, 8:30 a.m.-noon; Oct. 24 and 26, 5:30-9 p.m.; and Nov. 18, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

"Computing and Clergy"—Oct. 6, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

"Computing and Educators"—Oct. 28, 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

Disk Operating System (DOS)—Oct. 10 and 12, 5:30-9 p.m., and again Oct. 31 and Nov. 2, 1-4:30 p.m. at Gulf Park; Oct. 2, 9 a.m.-4 p.m., and Oct. 23 and 30, 5:30-9 p.m., at the Jackson County Center.

Cost for any individual course is $79.

For information, call USMGC's Continuing Education offices in Long Beach at (601) 865-4508, or Jackson County at (601) 497-5135.

Masterworks concert series

An encore organ performance by Father Sean Duggan, OSB, will open the 1995-96 Masterworks concert season Sunday, Oct. 15 at 3 p.m. at St. Paul Church, 140 East Beach Boulevard in Pass Christian. Admission is free.

Also having appeared during the 1994-95 concert season at St. Paul, the world-renowned pianist and organist has twice won the Johann Sebastian Bach International Competition for pianists and has played extensively throughout the United States and Europe.

A monk of St. Joseph Abbey near Covington, he is a composer of liturgical music, with sons published by Liturgical Press and GIA in Chicago; music director and principal organist at St. Joseph Abbey; and spiritual director of St. Joseph Seminary College, where he also teaches music, religion and Latin.

A native of New Jersey, Fr. Duggan received his music education at Loyola University in New Orleans, where he earned a bachelor's of music degree, and Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh, where he obtained a master of fine arts degree and was a piano teacher, staff accompanist and member of Carnegie Mellon trio and assistant chorus master of the Pittsburgh Opera Company.

Ordained to the priesthood in 1988, Fr. Duggan holds a master of arts in theology from Notre Dame Seminary.

The October concert kicks off the third year of the Masterworks series, which has been received enthusiastically by Coast audiences.

The next concert is scheduled for Dec. 3 when the Gulf Coast 'Messiah' Chorus presents Handel's famous oratorio with a 100-member chorus and orchestra. Details regarding all Masterworks concerts are available from the church office, 452-4686.

Domestic Abuse Awareness Month

October is designated nationally as Domestic Violence Awareness Month. A Candlelight Vigil to honor and pray for families, victims, survivors and the abusers will be held at the John Slidell Recreation Park Field No. 3 Oct. 17 at 8 p.m.

Clinical psychologist Dr. James P. Morgan Jr. will be guest speaker addressing the subject "Domestic Abuse." Pastor of First Baptist Church of Lacombe, La., Keith Ivey, will lead the prayer vigil and moment of silence.

Participants will light candles person to person in honor of law enforcement officers and those who died in the line of domestic violence during the silence.

Counselors from NorthShore Psychiatric Hospital and the SAFE (Spousal Abuse and Family Education) program will be available to talk, educate and assist if requested.

Representatives of the St. Tammany Parish Battered Women's Program, Safe Harbor Women's Shelter, St. Tammany Parish Sheriff's Department, Slidell Police Department and appointed officials will be among the guests and represent the legislative and judicial system involved in the process.

National statistics show that every 15 seconds a victim is battered. 600,000,000 victims are beaten each year by their partners, 4,000 of which are killed.

Healthier Babies Month

With a stroke of a pen, Gov. Kirk Fordice officially declared October 1995, the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies Month in Mississippi.

The mission of the March of Dimes is to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects and infant mortality. This is accomplished through the Campaign for Healthier Babies and programs of community service, advocacy, research and education.

Mississippi currently ranks number one in the nation in infant deaths before age one, teenage pregnancy and low birthweight births.

Throughout the month of October, the Mississippi March of Dimes will be focusing on the importance of pre-pregnancy planning, the importance of taking the B-vitamin folic acid prior to and during early pre-pregnancy and prenatal care to help ensure a problem free pregnancy for the mother and a healthy birth for the baby.

AARP silver anniversary

For information on the pre-pregnancy planning and prenatal care, contact the March of Dimes Division in your area or call 1-800-842-5117.

The American Management Association's Fourth Annual Conference for Working Women will be Wednesday, Oct. 18 at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg and Long Beach.

The live interactive teleconference will consist of practical information and training that women can immediately apply on the job. The program includes sessions on change in the workplace, helping an organization prepare and meet needs in the 21st century and managing transition. The featured speaker is Dr. Natasha Josefowitz, a management consultant and internationally known keynote speaker.

Registration begins at 11 a.m. the day of the conference on both USM campuses.

In Hattiesburg, the teleconference will be aired in the R. C. Cook University Union, Rooms B and C.

In Long Beach, the teleconference will air at the USM Gulf Park Conference Center.

The teleconference begins at 11:30 a.m. and runs until 2:30 p.m. A $30 fee covers materials and refreshments.

To register or for information in Hattiesburg, contact USM Continuing Education, Box 5055, Hattiesburg, MS 39406-5055 or phone (601) 266-4186.

Those interested in attending the teleconference on the Gulf Coast should register through USMGC's Division of Continuing Education. For information or to register in that location, call USM Gulf Park Conference Center at (601) 865-4508.

Fall Fashion

A professional touch for your fall wardrobe

When looking for a job, interviewing can be an exhilarating challenge. A face-to-face introduction speaks louder than words on a resume, so it's important to make certain that the image you present is appropriate for the situation — and the personnel director.

In the midst of developing your full business potential, don't overlook one very important detail: Yourself.

Planning your makeup and clothing strategically, and allowing your personality and individual style to show through, can help you master your formula for success.

For advice on working wardrobes, makeup how-tos and effective job strategies, no matter what your career field — conservative, entrepreneurial or creative — it is suggested:

Conservative chic

A conservative wardrobe goes hand-in-hand with a "corporate image." In a no-nonsense environment your fashions should follow suit, but style can thrive in a corporate world. The message is: Don't be afraid to be stylish and professional.

Classically tailored double-breasted suits paired with smooth, figure-flattering body-suits or blouses are smart choices. Simple accessories, such as subtle gold and silver, elegant pearls or a good watch, will expand your wardrobe and add personalized touches.

Stay simply natural with hair and makeup. Sheer foundation and powder, mascara, eyeliner and lipstick are all you need to convey a polished look.

Before interviewing, list your strengths and define your value to potential employers. Consider: professional accomplishments; problem-solving skills; leadership qualities; interpersonal skills. Research the growth potential and reputation of the company. You'll impress your prospective employer with your initiative, and you'll be able to discuss the job intelligently.

Entrepreneurial savvy

Invest in a wardrobe that says "you can depend on me." Be a chameleon — ready for anything day or night with double-duty clothes and cosmetics.

Select distinct, innovative suits and dresses. Also, an exquisitely tailored jacket that pairs with skirts or trousers packs plenty of professional punch.

Have fun with accessories. A signature pin, "status" watch, designer scarves and costume jewelry allow for infinite options.

Choose no-fuss, easy to apply makeup that works for you when you need it most.

During interviews: Be confident and relaxed, and use your presentation skills. Arrive early to allow yourself time to review notes, check your appearance, organize thoughts.

Creative flair

Develop your personal style. Be adventurous! Fields like advertising, publishing, design and entertainment thrive on creativity. Use personal flair to your fullest advantage and show your strengths by dressing in looks that are slightly out-of-the-ordinary.

Bold patterned suits create lots of graphic appeal, while sophisticated silhouettes in solid shades, embellished by uniquely-shaped colored buttons or pins, make a statement.

Textured gold or silver, adorned with semiprecious stones, or delicate hand-carved wood beads, worn as pendants, chains or earrings, stray beautifully from the norm.

Avoid fashion pitfalls by excluding anything too tight, sexy or suggestive; scuffed, too-high, or open-toe shoes; too much makeup or too much perfume. Hair and makeup should stay in sync with your overall look. Try soft cosmetic shades, then boldly accent the lips.

Sell yourself for the job. Listen carefully to the interviewer's description of the position. Present your qualifications assertively and tactfully, and make sure she knows you're interested before the conclusion of the interview.

It doesn't take much time to find your best look. All you need is a little fashion and beauty know-how to create individual career style.

Relieve the dress stress of an interview

Maybe you've been going to school. Maybe you're going back to work. Maybe you're making a career change. Whatever your reasons for interviewing, here are three ways to dress smart:

Project the right image. Familiarize yourself with the company. Do they have a dress code? Is it corporate or creative? Dressing in a similar fashion will give you confidence.

You'll also look more in control if you carry one bag, briefcase, or tote with the contents well organized beforehand.

Use moderation in clothing, makeup and accessories. Any extreme will detract from the positive impression you want to give. Too much of anything will take away from you.

Shop carefully. Go for value — quality goods that fit well. Leave designer labels for later. Stay within your means and position.

A buying guide to cultured pearls

Natural pearls found in the wild are very rare and expensive. Cultured pearls, unlike imitation or faux pearls, also are grown by oysters, but with an assist from man.

The Cultured Pearl Association of America recommends that consumers buying cultured pearls should look for the following quality factors:

1. Lustre—Lustre is a combination of surface brilliance and a deep-seated glow. The lustre of a good-quality pearl should be bright, not dull. You should be able to see your own reflection clearly on the surface of a pearl.

2. Cleanliness—Cleanliness refers to the absence of disfiguring spots, bumps or cracks on the surface of a pearl. The cleaner the surface of the pearl, the more valuable.

3. Color—Cultured pearls

come in a variety of colors, from black to pink. While the color of a pearl should be matched to a person's skin tone, the color of a pearl should be even, not spotty or blotchy.

4. Shape—Since cultured pearls are grown by oysters in nature, it is very rare to find a perfectly round pearl. However, the more symmetrical a pearl is, the greater value it will hold. Baroque pearls, which are asymmetrical in shape, are uniquely interesting in their own right but often cost far less than round pearls.

5. Size—Cultured pearls are measured by their diameter in millimeters. They can run smaller than 1 millimeter for tiny seed pearls or as large as 20 millimeters for the big South Sea pearl. The average size of most cultured pearls sold today is 7 to 7 1/2 millimeters.

Freestyle dressing breaks boundaries this fall

This fall, forget about the rules and regulations defining fashionable flair — "freestyle" dressing is changing the way you can express your personal style.

Unconstructed and loosely interpreted, this new manner of dressing has no boundaries. It's as simple as wearing what you love and putting together pieces in a way that makes you feel comfortable.

A carefree attitude "Creating a unique outfit has never been easier," explains Steve Somers, president of Crazy Horse. "It's an unconventional combination of all your favorite items from the past, present and future."

New pieces feel like you've had them forever, and old pieces look new again. Layers are important to the carefree attitude, with long over short and short over long.

Loose items worn on the bottom are complemented by slim shapes on top, where body-hugging meets baggy.

Individual style Try wearing colored denim, and a pop-boy T-shirt with a rustic, hooded anorak, or a denim utility vest over long thermal tops and stove jeans. The oversized barn jacket — with a snap-out quilted lining that doubles as a vest — pairs perfectly with corduroy shorts layered over skinny, ribbed leggings.

In short, fashion this fall is anything you want it to be. By mixing and matching pieces, both new and old, you can create an easy look that's all your own.

Enjoy the freedom of Friday dressing

Lately, more and more companies have been acknowledging their employees' hard work and dedication in a new way. As long as they maintain a professional appearance, these employees are allowed to "dress down" on Fridays.

While "Friday dressing" as it's commonly called, has been widely embraced by employees, many women are finding it difficult to make the transition from their classic Monday through Thursday wardrobe to the more relaxed, end-of-the-week look.

Women's clothing is experiencing a universal relaxing of the rules, which also influences traditional weekday career pieces.

A roomy cardigan jacket teams up with matching pleated trousers and a crushed color blouse. A glen plaid jacket complements a ruffle-front blouse and long, full skirt, while fitted vests in floral or map prints turn classic suits into something bold and new.

Then comes Friday, when the lighter side of a woman's personality can be revealed. Loose, unconstructed pieces explode in exciting colors and patterns.

Conventional blazers and slim skirts are replaced by relaxed tunics and elastic-waist, wide-leg pants in vivid fall shades of purple and green.

Blouses accented with wooden beads are knotted in front and worn over full, drop-yoke skirts in batik or woodblock prints; and long, tie-front bests are layered over lace-edged tops and split skirts or easy pants.

But "Friday dressing" doesn't represent a complete departure from standard office regime. Remember, straying too far from the norm is not good fashion sense.

A shopping checklist for men

- Regardless of the garment you're buying, certain procedures can help prevent you from investing your hard-earned money in shoddy materials or badly made clothes. Refer to the following list when shopping:
1. Gently tug on the seams of all garments to make sure they are secure.
 2. Always look for loose or hanging threads that can indicate shoddy workmanship.
 3. Make sure buttons are securely in place, and the replacements are conveniently sewn into the garment's inside panel or attached in a package.
 4. Check coat and suit linings to see that they are firmly attached and won't hang out after one cleaning.
 5. On suits and sport jackets, crumple the fabric to be certain it bounces back.
 6. When buying pants, make sure there is an extra button. This will support the waist band.
 7. Choose the style of a new suit or blazer wisely. Remember: Unusual colors or trendy lapel treatments or stitching can date the garment quickly.
 8. On all garments make sure the pattern matches in areas where two pieces of fabric are joined.
 9. Look for shirts with a minimum of seven buttons down the front.
 10. Belts should always have five holes, the actual length of the belt being measured from the center hole.
 11. When buying shoes, make sure leathers are soft and supple — a good sign of quality workmanship. Soles should be sturdy and thick for longest wear.
 12. Stick to more classic shoe styles (tie-ups) and colors (blacks, browns) for business-attire styling, slip-ons for casual looks.
 13. Pay attention to a store's return policy. Better garment and department stores should always refund or exchange defective or poorly constructed merchandise.

'COOL' Fashions To 'FALL' For!
...say it with STYLE!

This fall, get the most out of your leather garments

Leather is one of this fall's hottest looks, but you don't have to break the bank to look stylish.

Here are some tips from Wilsons The Leather Experts about how to get the most from your leather dollars.

- Look at the leather itself. Leather is a natural product, so part of its characteristic is that no two pieces are identical in look, color or feel. However, color matching should be consistent; any scratches or marks should be on the lower panels and less visible parts of the garment.
- Check the hardware. You want one that zips smoothly, without snagging. Brass zippers are generally better than steel, as they won't rust. Snaps and buttons should be examined for ease of use and how securely they are attached to the garment.
- Pay attention to construction. Stitching should be straight and even. Both sides of collars and bottoms should lay even. Seams should lay flat and not buckle.
- If buying a jacket or coat, consider one with a zip-out lining. The cost of a jacket with a removable liner may be more than a regular jacket, but it will extend the wearability of your garment.
- Fit — in sportswear, such as leather pants and skirts, the fit should be slightly snug, as the leather will "give" and form to the body, much like a pair of jeans. Note that the tighter the pants, the more stretch it will have, though in all cases, the stretch is not a lot.
- Leather is a great way to express your personal style, so have fun!

CASINO HAPPENINGS

Jubilee Casino

Carnival on the Coast

What's up, Doc?

Plenty if you happen to be one of the thousands who plan to join the fall festivities at Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino's "Carnival On The Coast" promotion going on now through Sunday, Oct. 15.

Hundreds of your favorite stuffed cartoon characters, such as Bugs Bunny, Yosemite Sam, Sylvester the Cat, Wylie Coyote, Porky Pig and more will be suspended from the casino ceiling just waiting to be taken home by Krewe Club slot and table game players.

And to prove there is a little bit of grownup in everyone, casino patrons can register to win one of three all-expense paid trips to the Bahamas, including air fare from New Orleans to Miami.

Casino patrons can collect a variety of huggable sizes of stuffed characters by accumulating carnival points by using their Krewe Club Player's Club card.

The size and point breakdown for the stuffed cartoon characters are as follows:

25 Carnival points — 20 to 30" character ($30 retail value)

50 Carnival points — 30 to 55" character ($50 retail value)

100 Carnival points — 39 to 67" character (priceless)

Carnival points are based on an accumulation of Krewe Club points. Twenty-five Krewe Club slot points will equal one carnival point. For table game players, a $100 buy-in will equal two carnival points.

The drawings for all three expense-paid trips to the Bahamas will take place Sunday, Oct. 15 at 9, 9:30 and 10 p.m.

Casino patrons may receive one free entry form per day. Additional entry forms may be earned for each 25 Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Joe Krewe Club slot points accumulated and every blackjack with a $5 minimum bet.

For information call 1-800-552-0707 or 466-6500. Th, th, th, that's all folks!

Entertainment

Renowned for their "yacht-style musical lyrics," New Orleans' favorite Benny Grunch & The Bunch will perform at Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino on Friday, Oct. 13 from 9 p.m.-1 a.m. on the casino's second floor. Admission is free.

Some of their more recent recordings include "The 12 Yats of Christmas," "Live In A Dive," and "Rizzum & Blues."

$100,000 winner!

Ever wonder how you would react if you won $100,000?

Chalmette resident Jill Pohlmann's Saturday night investment of $3.25 in Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino's French Quarters slot machine resulted in a $100,000 windfall and early retirement.

No two weeks notice, no thanks for the memories, just a subtle way of saying take this job and . . . well, you get the picture. And although she doesn't claim to be clairvoyant, Pohlmann said she sees a new car and furniture in her immediate future.

"My kids are looking forward to a great Christmas," the mother of three and now retired card dealer said.

And to prove good news travels at breakneck speeds, Pohlmann said her phone hasn't stopped ringing since she scored the big haul.

"Friends, neighbors and relatives all know I've won the money. I think they are as shocked as I am," said Pohlmann.

Grand Casino

New amenities, shows, hotels part of growth

In May 1993, Grand Casino Gulfport opened its doors for business. Since then, Grand Casino Biloxi, the "world's largest floating casino," joined the "Grand Family" in January 1994. For Grand Casinos of Mississippi, 1995 has been a year of making the "dream a reality": the Biloxi Grand Theatre opened in March; the Grand Casino Biloxi Hotel opened in April; and America Live! at Grand Casino Gulfport opened in May. And there's still more to come.

Stagestruck, an award-winning salute to Broadway, opened September 29 for a six-month run at the Biloxi Grand Theatre. The second Greg Thompson production (Dancin' in the Streets! played March-September 1995) to come to the Coast and Grand Casino Biloxi, Stagestruck features more than 60 hits from Broadway favorites. Tickets can be purchased through the Grand Casino Biloxi box office or any Ticketmaster outlet.

Upcoming events at the Biloxi Grand Theatre include the magic and style of jazz great, Al Hirt, on Tuesday, Oct. 24. On December 5, boxing legend Bobby Czyz will be in the center ring as USA Network broadcasts live. And 1995 will come to a close with the Duke Ellington Orchestra bringing the house down on December 30!

Grand Advantage I, Grand Casinos' new yacht, pulled into the marina last week and was christened by Grand Casino Biloxi General Manager, Chuck Yeager, on September 22. The sleek, 64-foot Bluewater pleasure cruiser is available for group cruises, parties and other special events in the Mississippi Sound. The home slip is Biloxi, but the yacht will be used by Gulfport as well. To check on availability or to book a cruise on Grand Advantage I, contact Tara Sistrunk, Grand Casino Biloxi, at 1-800-WIN-2-WIN, ext. 2881, or (601) 436-2881.

The space vacated by the move of Kids Quest and Grand Arcade to the Grand Casino Biloxi Hotel will soon be ready to greet guests again. Located on the lower level, west end of Grand Casino Biloxi, Mississippi Long Bar Gambling Hall & Saloon will offer approximately 13,000 square feet of entertainment and gaming space. The actual bar is 110 feet long and will feature daily live entertainment, including piano and guitar players. Specialty snack foods will be served. Over 300 video slots and video table games will be available, including over 30 bartop slots, with six Bally Touch screens. The Mississippi Long Bar Gambling Hall & Saloon is scheduled to open on November 4.

The finishing touches are now being put on the new Grand Casino Gulfport Hotel. Scheduled to open for business October 16, this luxurious 17-story, 400-room hotel will feature amenities and services Grand guests have come to expect. A grand opening celebration is set for mid-November. With nearly 9,000 square feet of ballroom, meeting and banquet space, the Grand Casino Gulfport Hotel offers a southern view of the Gulf Coast and color-drenched skies at the sun sets in the west.

The 240-seat Crab House restaurant, full-service Grand Spa, Grand Gift Shop, and relaxing indoor pool help round out America Live! and Grand Casino Gulfport.

any kind of non-hazardous dumping on the property facing Harbor Drive.

"We are currently seeking to provide the DEQ with an affidavit documenting the burial of such waste, so that the DEQ may pursue this matter further," Miller promised.

He asked the Solid Waste District to "implement a system that monitors Boudin's performance, including when, where, and how equipment is washed and washing is performed in compliance with state laws."

Miller also asked the board to establish and maintain a public record of customer complaints, and to provide a means for public input before Boudin's contract comes up for renewal next March.

Boudin defended his handling of the city and county's garbage. He said complaints about poor service had escalated only after he began preparing the Harbor Drive site for his expansion.

Albert Weiss, one of the organizers against the expansion, said he wasn't complaining about poor service, but about Boudin's attitude.

"You started something with no input from the people. It's the wrong attitude. We don't want this thing in our neighborhood, and not on our main road," said Weiss.

Residents claimed Boudin refused to pick up their trash at the curb because they brought their case to the media.

Boudin said he will pick up all garbage that is properly bagged and is placed outside a homeowner's property by 6:30 on the morning pickup as scheduled.

Lucien Gex, the attorney for the Solid Waste District, asked citizens to document homes where garbage is not being picked up, so something can be done.

The meeting with the Solid Waste District came on the heels of a neighborhood protest staged Saturday on Harbor Drive within a few feet from the site where Boudin wants to relocate his waste and recycling operation.

More than 50 residents, ranging from children to the elderly, carried blue and white signs that read, "Save Harbor Drive," and marched up and down the street in a peaceful demonstration Saturday afternoon. They also handed out to motorists and passersby a petition to sign if they supported the group's efforts to stop the planned expansion.

Picketers said Boudin posted two "For Sale" signs at the entrance to the site just hours before the demonstration.

Boudin, the son of County Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin, was awarded a two-year contract by the county's Solid Waste District in 1994, although he had no prior garbage collection experience. The contract pays about $50,000 per month and was based on the number of households serviced. It is up for renewal in March of 1996.

He was the lowest of three bidders, offering to pick up trash twice a week within the city limits of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, and once a week in the unincorporated areas of Hancock County.

Since then, Boudin has landed contracts to pick up garbage from commercial establishments in the area, and from businesses and trailer parks in Pearl River County and in St. Tammany Parish, Louisiana. The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board voted to renew its contract with Boudin at its meeting on Monday.

His business employees about 25 people, and he has a fleet of about 16 compacting trucks and some dump trucks.

Boudin has been operating out of other property he owns on Spruce Street off Harbor Drive, but said he wants to build on the new site because it is more accessible to Highway 90.

Boudin told the Echo he was willing to sell his property on Harbor Drive, "if I got a good price."

Residents had suggested that the Board of Supervisors purchase the tract, and turn it into a playground for the neighborhood children.

Technically, there is little supervisors can do legally if Boudin wants to put his operations on Harbor Drive. Years ago, residents in unincorporated areas of Hancock County voted against zoning restrictions which would have prohibited such an operation in residential areas.

The neighborhood's representation on the Board of Supervisors, District 4 Supervisor Wilber Seymour, said supervisors were not likely to make Boudin an offer for his land.

Seymour's son, Steve, who is in the November runoff to succeed his dad, was at Saturday's demonstration.

He said restrictive zoning is the answer to prevent future problems like the Boudin controversy.

"This county has got to come into the 21st century," said Seymour.

Until then, Seymour said he had talked to Boudin, and he thought citizens had legitimate concerns.

He said he hoped "some kind of compromise can be reached," and Boudin can find land elsewhere for his business.

was acting mayor. As acting Mayor, Emerson had vetoed the original budget championed by Ward 3 Alderman Michael Antoine.

The Antoine-Rogers budget imposed a property tax hike of more than 12 percent on homeowners inside city limits and those in unincorporated areas. It provides for pay raises ranging from six to eight percent for all city employees, including department heads.

The latest adopted budget provides the same level of municipal services, but department heads would be exempted temporarily from a pay hike.

Under the budget plan approved by Alderman-at-Large Gene Rogers and Ward 2 Alderman Margaret Jean Kalif, the salaries of city department heads will be reviewed by the new mayor, and a determination made by Nov. 29 on whether they should get raises.

It was Emerson's desire that any additional revenue from the tax hike would be put into a reserve fund "rather than squandered." Latest estimates are the city might end next year with a cash reserve of more than $390,000.

Highway

Signs will be improved along the highway, with U-turns outlawed.

The improvements are drawn from a long list of suggestions City Council prepared a year ago, after touring Highway 90.

Favre said the city has been asked to pass an ordinance prohibiting right turns on a red light off Highway 90 onto Blue Meadow in light of safety problems in the recently-upgraded intersection.

He also said MDOT plans to study the timing of the newly-placed signal light at Washington and Highway 90, possibly extending the time allowed for traffic entering the highway from Washington.

Funds for the improvements will be drawn from the state's share of casino-generated revenues. Originally, state officials said they would use state maintenance funding to provide the upgrades.

Bay P.O. celebrates National Stamp Month

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

During the month of October the Bay St. Louis Post Office will sponsor several contests to celebrate National Stamp Collection Month.

Coordinator Deidre Dear said, "The Bay St. Louis Post Office will offer a Stamp Hunt and a Toon Party."

The Stamp Hunt, similar to an egg hunt, will be for children Pre-K through third grade. It is to be held at Bay St. Louis Park behind the old Bay St. Louis City Hall, Saturday, Oct. 21, 9:30 a.m.

There will be balloons, prizes, and lots of fun for the kids, Dear said.

The Toon Party, along the lines of the post office's theme this year of cartoon stamps, will include refreshments and prizes, in addition to awarding prizes for various contests which will take place at areas schools.

The Toon Party will be in the lobby of the Bay Post Office on Saturday, Oct. 28, 10 a.m.

The public is invited and urged to attend the two celebrations sponsored by the Bay Post Office, Dear said.

For further information, Dear can be contacted at 467-5788.

Toast to the Coast

Coast Episcopal School Parents Organization is presenting its annual Toast to the Coast on Oct. 13 beginning at 6:30 p.m. at 533 East Scenic Drive in Pass Christian.

Live and silent auctions will be held, along with raffles and specialty dishes prepared by some of the finest chefs along the Gulf Coast.

Tickets are $50 in advance, $55 at the door.

For more information, call the school at 452-9442.

Symphony rescheduled

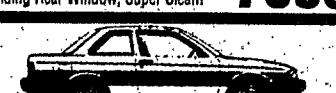

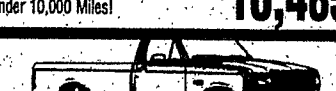

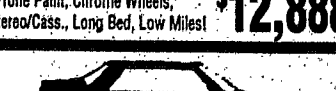

The Gulf Coast Symphony Guild luncheon, originally scheduled Oct. 4, has been rescheduled for Friday, Oct. 27, in Pass Christian.

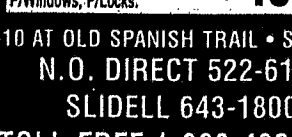

Mrs. Beverly Danielson, Guild first vice-president, said all tickets previously sold for the "Grand Affair Luncheon" will be valid. Tickets are still available and may be purchased at Wicker N Wood, 254 E. Beach or from Elaine Norcross at 864-9798 in Long Beach, Danielson said.

The luncheon fashion show will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ramsey at 845 E. Scenic Drive.

'A Place of Art IV'

Art of every media was represented in Bay St. Louis last weekend in festivities promoted by A Place of Art.

A gala patron's party was held Friday night, Oct. 6 at the Our Lady of the Gulf Community Center on South Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis and featured exhibits by more than 50 artists from the greater Gulf South region. A silent auction climaxed the event.

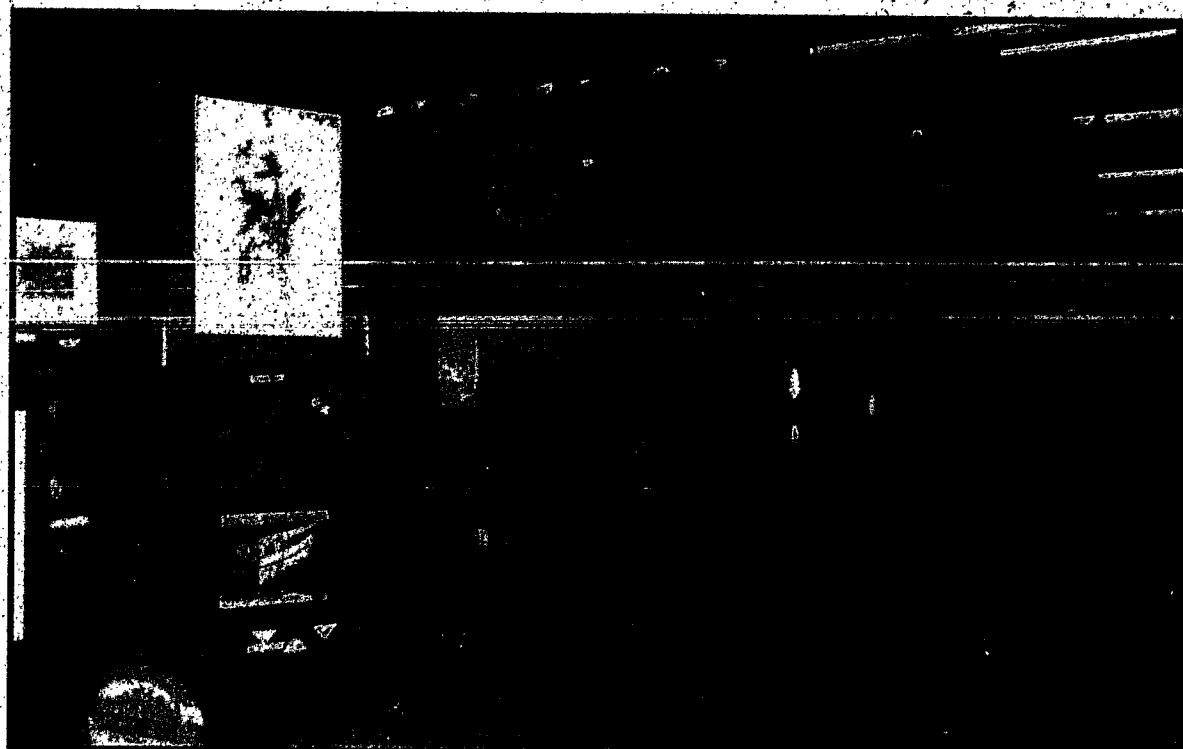

All day Saturday, Oct. 7, the first two blocks of Main Street was blocked off for artists to exhibit their crafts. Hundreds strolled the streets in near perfect fall weather.

A Place of Art is a non-profit organization committed to furthering the arts in Bay St. Louis, Hancock County and the Mississippi Gulf Coast. This was the fourth year of the celebration which has become one of the Gulf Coast's premiere events.

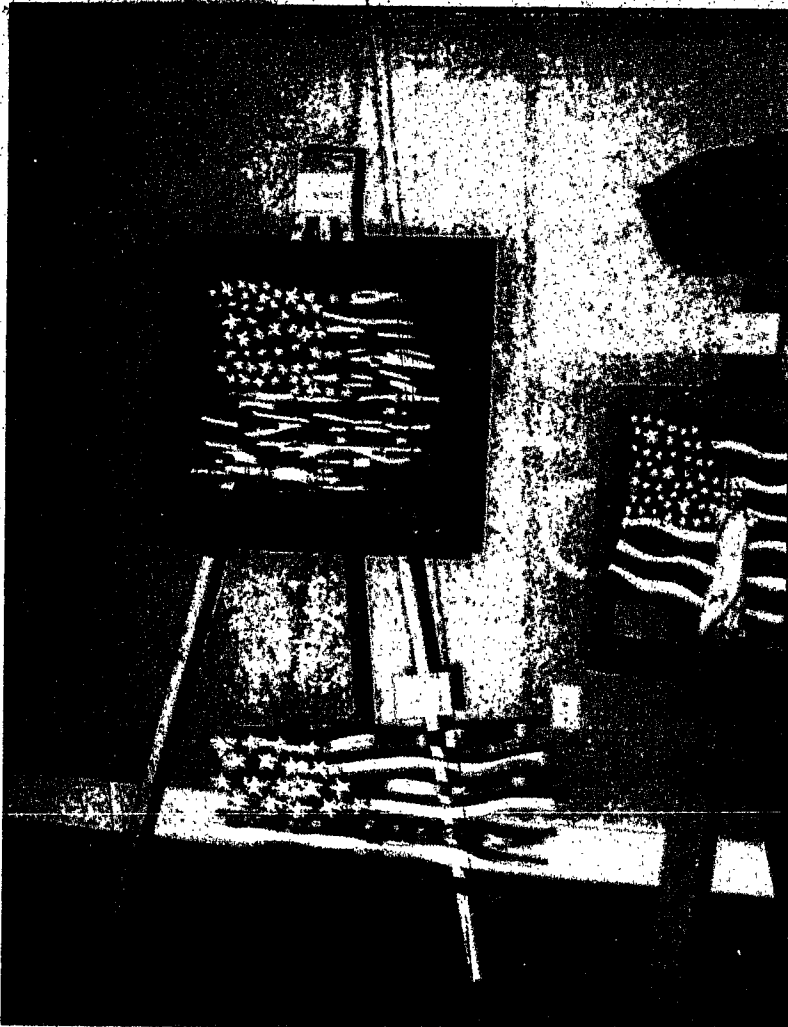

The Patron's Party held at the new spacious Our Lady of the Gulf Community Center was well attended.

Several exhibitors donated their work for a Silent Auction which took place at the Patron's Party held Friday night.

College Football Highlights

For Oct. 14

No two major-college teams have played two more exciting back-to-back games than Florida and Auburn. In 1993 the Auburn Tigers came from 13 points behind to hand the Gators their first loss of the season, 38-35.

Last year Auburn did it again, in even more dramatic fashion, dealing then-No. 1-ranked Florida its only loss of the season, 36-33, before 85,500 screaming Gator fans in Gainesville. Florida came from behind three times to take the lead, but Auburn forced six Gator turnovers and scored the winning touchdown with only 30 seconds left.

We picked Florida both times, so you'd think we'd be ready to go the other way this week, when they meet again in Auburn. Nope — we're sticking with Florida. Though the Tigers' offense isn't far behind in the national rankings, the Gators, led by QB Danny Wuerffel, have been simply overpowering. We're looking for another close game — can they make it three thrillers in a row? — but Florida should win by four points.

Another Southeastern Conference East-West matchup figures prominently in the polls, as Alabama hosts Tennessee. The Crimson Tide has beaten the Volunteers eight of the last nine years, but Tennessee's even-point win on Saturday will break with the recent tradition. In last year's 17-13 loss in Knoxville, Tenn., the Vols drove down to Alabama's 7-yard line with a minute and a half left but couldn't score. The key again in this game will be how well the Tennessee offense does against the Tide D. This year the Vols will score more easily.

In the annual Red River War in Dallas, Oklahoma should beat Texas by three points. Last year the Longhorns won 17-10, as redshirt freshman QB James Brown ran for one TD and passed for the other, and Sooner Tailback James (Lightning) Allen was stopped on fourth down at the Texas 3 in the final minute.

Brown continues to be the catalyst of the Texas offense — as does Allen for the Sooners, along with running mate Jerald (Thunder) Moore. The Longhorns will have all the Thunder and Lightning they can handle.

In the Pacific-10, is Stanford for real? In '94 the Cardinals shocked Washington 46-28, ending a 10-game losing streak against the Huskies, but can Stanford beat Washington twice in a row? We think so: Stanford by six.

Our forecasting average has slipped slightly, as it usually does in midseason, to .734. Through Sept. 30 we've picked 718 games right and 260 wrong, with 24 ties. We're confident we'll make a comeback.

NFL Forecast for Sunday and Monday Oct. 12, 15-16

*St. Louis, 28—Atlanta, 24
(Thursday) As they fought for last in the NFC West last year, the Falcons beat the very different Rams twice, 31-13 and 8-5. Atlanta has the offense, but St. Louis has a whole new — very excited — home crowd.

*Buffalo, 23—Seattle, 17
(Sunday) The Bills haven't overpowered anybody, but against one of the weakest defenses in the NFL, they won't need to. These teams haven't met since '89, and the Seahawks have never been to Buffalo.

Chicago, 26—Jacksonville, 16
As the first team to face both expansion clubs in consecutive weeks, the Bears must make the most of the opportunity. The Jaguars have no offense, and Chicago will bash their defense as well.

Dallas, 32—San Diego, 25
It's been five years since the Cowboys last battled the Chargers, winning 17-14. Both teams are playing superb defense, but Dallas's ability to run and pass for lots of TD's is the difference.

*Green Bay, 24—Detroit, 22
In both '93 and '94 the Packers and Lions split their regular-season series, then G.B. won their wild-card playoff. With Detroit capable of anything — like shocking S.F. — this is a tough pick.

*Kansas City, 34—New England, 14
The Chiefs beat the Patriots 27-20 the last time they met, in '92. He's not breaking yardage records through the air, but K.C. QB Steve Bono is throwing for TD's, while N.E. is just throwing.

Miami, 35—New Orleans, 17
They've lost four of the six games they've played against the Dolphins, but the Saints won the most recent one, three years ago, 24-13. This time N.O.'s secondary can't handle Miami's passing.

Minnesota, 27—Tampa Bay, 21
This is the first of four straight crucial intradivisional games for the Vikings, who beat and then lost to the Buccaneers in '94. Thus far, T.B.'s defense has been better than Minnesota's.

*N.Y. Giants, 18—Philadelphia, 15
Toss a coin and call this one in the air. The Giants have won four in a row over the Eagles, but they'll make it five — by a field goal, probably one of many — only because they're playing at home.

N.Y. Jets, 19—Carolina, 10
If any team has sunk to the level of the league newcomers, it's the Jets. Sandwiched between games with the Raiders, Bills, Dolphins and Colts, though, this should give New York a breather.

San Francisco, 30—Indianapolis, 24
This could be a good game if the Colts not only move the ball, which they've been doing just fine, but score points, which they haven't. The 49ers have won the last five games in this series.

Washington, 23—Arizona, 12
In Week One in Washington, Gus Frerotte replaced the injured Heath Shuler, threw two TD passes and led the Redskins to a 27-7 win over the Cardinals. Arizona is lost on both sides of the ball.

Oakland, 29—Denver, 21
(Monday) Here's one with potential for Monday Night Madness, though the Raiders seem to have the Broncos' number: They've won six in a row and 11 of the last 12 against Denver — 48-16 and 23-13 in '94.

Water quality important in locating bass

Among the different variables professional bass tournament angler Ken Cook uses to help him locate bass, water quality ranks as one of the most important.

"Just as we don't want to live in unsatisfactory conditions, bass don't either," says Cook, a former fisheries biologist and a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff. "If quality of the water is poor, bass just won't stay there."

Cook defines water quality in part by the absence or presence of plankton, and he determines this by the water's color.

"Good, fertile water will be greenish in color," he explains, "and visibility will range from one to about three feet, which is easy to test with a white spinnerbait."

"The color is caused by plankton, and it forms the basis of the entire food chain for the lake you're fishing. If it isn't present—that part of the lake is very clear, for instance—you need to go to another area to look for bass."

"This is why we travel so far on some lakes to find dingy or off-colored water. It has more plankton so there is a better bass population in that area. This is one reason tributary creeks are often such good places to fish. An actively running creek will have a constant supply of nutrients washing in to help form and support the food chain."

Cook's definition of water quality also includes water temperature, which he checks regularly during a day on the water.

"Although temperature is probably more of a factor in the spring when the water is warming, it is also important in the fall and winter," says the Evinrude pro, "because it influences the fish's metabolism."

"When the water temperature is 70 degrees, for example, it takes about 24 hours for a bass to digest one shad. When the temperature drops to 60 degrees, it takes a little over 48 hours to digest that same shad."

"When the temperature drops to 50 degrees, however, it takes a bass a full week to digest a shad."

"If you look at bass activity in those terms, it's no wonder we have problems catching fish in cold water. It's also why we often see such frenzied feeding activity by bass in the autumn before the water really starts getting cold."

"Bass are acting just like bears do before hibernation. They're trying to put on weight and store body fat to live on during the coming winter."

Bassin' with the pros

Arabian Sea studies could be helpful

Lantern Fish (Myctophids) exist in the Arabian Sea in numbers 60 times more abundant than anywhere else in the world's oceans. These bioluminescent fish thrive in the oxygen minimum layer of the Arabian Sea during the day and travel to the upper layer to feed at night. Norwegian surveys have estimated that these Lantern Fish exist in high enough numbers to be commercially fished.

Currently, there is no fishing for Lantern Fish off the coast of Oman.

"Understanding the potential for establishing a fishery for Lantern Fish should be economically important to Oman," said Dr. David K. Young, chief scientist for this cruise and head of the Naval Research Laboratory's (NRL) Coupled Dynamic Processes Section.

During an NRL/Office of Naval Research/Joint Global Ocean Flux Study November/December 1994 exercise in the Arabian Sea, NRL and ONR-funded academic researchers obtained bioacoustic data which may help to verify these numbers.

According to Young, the Arabian Sea is a unique part of the world's oceans, characterized by the strong physical forcing of the southwest monsoon which is responsible for upwelling off the coast of Somalia and Oman.

This upwelling, in turn, causes some of the richest phytoplankton blooms ever measured in the world's oceans. Lantern Fish eat small free-swimming crustaceans, called copepods, which feed on these blooms.

An effort is underway by NRL's Dr. Douglas J. Neilson, a postdoctoral associate with Dr. John U. Kindle, to numerically model the interactions of Lantern Fish and the plankton they feed on.

Based on an existing NRL-developed model that successfully simulates the physical environment and associated plankton blooms in the Arabian Sea, this effort will result in a tool which can help analyze trends in Lantern Fish abundance over time and space.

The model will also allow researchers to analyze the biological and physical factors which allows such a large population of Lantern Fish to exist. Understanding these factors will allow better, long-term management of the Lantern Fish fishery which is certain to develop in the Arabian Sea.

Goose season dates set

Sportsmen may hunt Canada geese this year within the Sardis Zone from Dec. 2 through Jan. 31, 1996, according to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

The Sardis Zone is that area encompassed by I-55 on the west, Mississippi 7 on the east, Mississippi 310 on the north and Mississippi 6 on the south. The daily bag limit is three, and the possession limit is three.

The following areas are closed to hunting Canada geese: Counties of Issaquena, Sharkey and Warren (North of I-20), and Roebuck Lake in Leflore County; the Arkabutal Zone (the area encompassed by I-55 on the east, Mississippi 4 on the south, Star Landing Road on the north, and those portions of DeSoto at Tate counties east of U.S. 61 and Mississippi 3).

All resident and non-resident waterfowl hunters 16 and older are required to purchase a state and federal duck stamp. All stamps must be signed in ink across the front and on the hunter's person while hunting.

Shooting hours for geese are one-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset, unless further restricted on some state and federal areas. Hunters must have their shotguns plugged and incapable of holding more than three shells. Hunters must use either steel or bismuth shot since lead shot is illegal for hunting waterfowl in Mississippi.

Squirrel, rabbit seasons

Squirrel season in Zone 2 opens Oct. 14 and continues through Jan. 31, 1996, according to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

Zone 2 are those areas between Hwy. 82 and Hwy. 84 plus portions of the state south of Hwy. 84 and west of Interstate 55.

The daily bag limit on squirrels is eight, and the possession limit is 16.

Also, rabbit season opens Oct. 14 statewide. It continues through Feb. 28, 1996.

The daily rabbit bag limit is eight, and the possession limit is 16. A possession limit is not permitted on the opening day of any season.

Hunting hours for squirrels and rabbits are one-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset.

Hunters are reminded to have a valid hunting license on their person before going afield or to the woods.

Horse show

There will be a horse show Oct. 28 at 5:30 p.m. at Pearl River County Fairgrounds in Poplarville, which includes speed events, jackpot barrels and poles. The event is sponsored by Pearl River County 4-H and is open to all interested youths and adults.

10-11 MINUTES FROM GULFPORT, SLIDELL, OR ANYWHERE ON THE COAST

Wildcats upended Gulf Coast Bulldogs

Pearl River Community College improved to 4-2 Saturday night with a 21-14 win over rival Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The Wildcats are 3-1 in the South Division, while the Bulldogs fell to 1-2 in the division and 1-5 overall.

"We made too many mistakes, but anytime you can beat your next door neighbor it's a good win," said PRCC coach

Keith Daniels.

Gulf Coast, coached by J. C. Arban, a former Pearl River head coach, took the opening kickoff and marched 61 yards in eight plays to go in front on an eight-yard run by O'Neal Carter.

Doug Thompson added the extra point, and the Bulldogs led 7-0 with 12:15 remaining in the first quarter.

Two series later the Wildcats tied the game when Kenshun Smith scored from six yards out. Antonio Camillo kicked the extra point and the first quarter ended tied at 7-7.

Early in the second period, Smith scampered down the sideline for a 25-yard score. PRCC's Jerel Posey added his 10th rushing touchdown of the year five minutes later with a two-yard run. Carrillo's kicks made the score 21-7.

The Bulldogs came roaring back with an 11-play, 75-yard drive and a 21-yard touchdown pass from Patrick Bartley to Pat McLean. Thompson closed the gap to 21-14 at the half.

Neither team could muster any points in the second half as Pearl River drives were stopped with an interception and a failed 38-yard field goal.

The Bulldogs were limited to just 57 total yards in the second half as Wildcats' Edward Probes and Dewayne Antoine picked off two Bulldog passes.

PRCC's Posey completed nine of 16 passes for 67 yards and he rushed 14 times for 56 yards and one touchdown. Smith rushed 27 times for 165 yards and two touchdowns.

Gulf Coast's O'Neal Carter rushed 17 times for 99 yards and one touchdown. Quarterback Patrick Barkely completed seven of 26 for 96 yards.

Wildcat Tim Pittman caught four passes for 37 yards and Scott Amacker made three catches for 34 yards.

Wildcats take on Holmes

Pearl River's Keith Daniels said his defensive unit will have to be disciplined to handle the Holmes Bulldogs tonight in Goodman.

"The Bulldogs are very proficient at running the option, and that means our defense will always have to take the pitch man and stay in position," said Daniels.

After the Wildcats beat rival Gulf Coast 21-14, Daniels was so impressed with his defensive unit that he awarded every player a piece of the weekly defensive award.

"Considering seven players were suspended for the Gulf Coast game, I thought the remaining 16 defensive players provided a gallant effort," said Daniels.

"We gave up just 57 yards in the second half and that is a tremendous accomplishment for any team, any week," he said.

"We had players play hurt, not because we told them to, but because they knew we needed them, and they didn't want to let the team down."

Daniels says the Holmes defense is also very strong.

"They are aggressive, and they have a lot of speed. They will really get after an offense," said Daniels.

The PRCC offensive line Dominator Award went to Joseph Scales of Bassfield, and the Intimidator Award was given to Ardemis Wesley of Camilla, Ga. Punter Kirk Myrick of Poplarville picked up the Special Teams Award, and Kenshun Smith of Decatur, Ga. took home the Offensive Player Award.

Smith rushed the ball 27 times for 165 yards and two touchdowns. Jerel Posey rushed 14 times for 56 yards and completed nine of 16 passes for 67 yards. He rushed for one touchdown.

"Our win over Gulf Coast was not pretty," said Daniels. "We had too many breakdowns and penalties. But it's still nice to get a win over your rival and next door neighbor."

Daniels said some of the players suspended last week will be back this week.

The game is scheduled for 7 p.m. today in Goodman, about an hour north of Jackson.

Daniels said his team was scheduled to stop in Jackson to visit the Children's Hospital at the University of Mississippi Medical Center.

"I hope we can bring a little cheer and a few smiles to the real competitors," said Daniels.

The Wildcats have won 29 and lost 10 and tied two against Holmes. The last time the Bulldogs beat the Wildcats was 7-0 back in 1981. PRCC won 21-3 last year.

Rocks just miss top ten finish

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The St. Stanislaus cross country team participated in another out of state meet in Louisiana. The Rocks finished eleventh overall out of forty teams in the St. Joseph's Invitational held on October 7 in New Orleans.

Brother Martin High School won the meet while Jesuit, Catholic High, Baton Rouge High, and Catholic of New Iberia rounded out the top five.

The Rocks were narrowly nipped by a point by Episcopal High of Baton Rouge.

Scott Esher finished 35th out of over 400 runners to take the top spot for the Rocks. Mike Mancuso, Scott Black, Kippy Chamberlain, Dawson McCall, John Rich, and Ryan Lawrence round out the top seven finishers for SSC.

Carey on the Coast

Progress and enrollment records

A total of 156 undergraduate students enrolled when William Carey College on the Coast opened its doors in the fall of 1976. Carey officials recently released preliminary enrollment figures indicating that the Coast campus is beginning its 20th year of serving South Mississippi by continuing to lead the entire College with record enrollment growth.

Headcount for the 1995 Fall semester totals 681 students—a new record that is 5 percent of the 1994 enrollment and quadruple the level of two decades ago for Carey's Gulf Coast programs.

College-wide enrollment, including the Hattiesburg and New Orleans programs, show 2,169 students are currently enrolled, an overall increase of 1 percent. Hattiesburg enrollment of 1,142 is up slightly from the 1993 student headcount record.

"The major recent growth areas have been in business—especially the new MBA program—education and psychology, nursing, art and the adult degree program at Keesler Air Force Base," stated Jim Edwards who has been president at William Carey since 1989.

"A private college has to be somewhat entrepreneurial and focus on changes in the market needs of employers in the region that it serves, while at the same time staying focused on its long-term mission."

"In our case, as a Baptist institution, our trustees and church constituents want us to be different in the sense of providing an education in a Christian environment, but at the same time meeting the needs of our broader constituency, which includes the economic and cultural environment of the Gulf Coast region."

Current trustees from the Gulf Coast include Joe Meadows and Rev. Bobby Perry of Biloxi, Larry Patterson of Gulfport, and Rev. Ben Carlisle of Pascagoula. Perry recently chaired the 15-member trustee board, and Patterson and Carlisle are currently vice-chair and secretary, respectively.

"These people, and other recent Gulf Coast leaders, including Andy Carpenter, Robert Woodall, David Spencer, Randy Davis and Rex Yancey have made a great impact on our vision for the entire College and especially Carey on the Coast," Edwards said.

"They joined hands over the years with Frank Gunn, James Thompson and Robert Eustice who were trustees when the college first took the visionary steps to acquire the Gulf Coast Military Academy and begin to operate the region's only private four-year liberal arts institution at William Carey on the Coast."

Academic and administrative leadership have made a great difference in strengthening Carey on the Coast according to Edwards.

"In the fall of 1989, we had reached a low point in our enrollment and had only six full-time faculty and an even smaller staff serving 212 students. When we hired Bill Payne and Rosalind Robbins early in 1990, the turnaround started on the Coast campus."

"Since that time we have continued to hire people who have education as their profession, teaching as their priority, and want to serve students. We now have 50 full-time faculty and staff at Carey on the Coast. We currently offer 25 different majors and minors and expect to continue to increase the diversity and strength of our academic programs."

According to Coast vice president Bill Payne, the blending of academic theory and real world applications is a major advantage of William Carey's degree programs.

"The MBA in executive leadership is an excellent example of our dual emphasis on what works both educationally and in the market place. Business leaders are willing to pay for a degree program that their employees can use now if it will also contribute in the future to improved services and products for their customers."

"Our undergraduate programs in nursing, teacher education, psychology, health related professions, business and art all have the same emphasis. We hire faculty who have outstanding academic backgrounds and who also teach what is happening in the real world."

Intercollegiate athletics has also been part of the growth and commitment to Carey on the Coast.

"The recent move of the men's and women's tennis teams from the Hattiesburg campus to Gulfport is an example of the strategies that have improved the college and its commitment to the Gulf Coast area. Both tennis teams have been ranked nationally in NAIA competition and this move raises the number of intercollegiate programs to four teams at Carey on the Coast," Payne said.

"When we started the men's soccer team eight years ago under Doug Stovall's leadership, it was the only intercollegiate athletic program on the Coast. The next step was the addition of the Lady Crusader soccer team that was so successful under Bill Findley and now Coach Tom Brown, who has also been appointed as assistant athletic director at William Carey College."

"We expect the new coach for our tennis teams to be appointed after a nationwide search. We also plan for that person to bring the same kind of personal and professional leadership to our college as all of our coaches have done in recent years. The facilities at Bayou Bluff Tennis Club are great and we are pleased to have our first schedule of intercollegiate Spring sports at Carey on the Coast," said Payne, who is a distinguished alumnus and former athletic star at the college.

As the college finishes its second decade, long-range plans are being developed including the unique role that can be served by William Carey on the Coast. New facilities, faculty and academic programs, and continued growth enrollment strategies are part of the plans being developed for the year 2005 and the future commitment to personalized student learning in a Christian environment.

"We plan to be a distinctive institution that serves the distinctive educational needs of the Gulf Coast region," Edwards said.

Outstanding attendance record

The 1995-96 school year is off to a great start with approximately 600 Hancock Jr./Sr. High School students having earned perfect attendance. In honor of the students' extra efforts, a pizza party was given for the home room in junior high and high school with perfect attendance. The classes are Sue Hatems' junior high homeroom (above) and Ricky Reed's high school homeroom.

Computer courses planned

A course focusing on Quattro Pro, an operating program that combines spreadsheets and graphics, will be taught at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast this fall.

The course, for Windows users, will be taught at USMGC's Gulf Park campus Oct. 31 and Nov. 2 from 8:30 a.m.-noon. DOS users will benefit from the course at USMGC's Jackson County center Nov. 20 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

Cost is $79. For information, call USMGC in Long Beach at (601) 865-4508 or in Jackson County at (601) 497-5135.

Lotus course

A complete introduction to Lotus 123 will be offered by the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast this fall.

Sessions at USMGC's Gulf Park campus—which focuses on using Lotus with the Windows system—will be held Oct. 24 and 26 from 8:30 a.m.-noon and on Nov. 10 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. A class for DOS users is planned at USMGC's Jackson County center Oct. 9 and 15 from 5:30-9 p.m.

Cost for either location is $79. For information, call USMGC in Long Beach at (601) 865-4508 or in Jackson County at (601) 497-5135.

Hancock Special Ed

School district participates in student evaluation effort

The Hancock County School District is participating in an ongoing statewide effort to identify, locate and evaluate children birth through age 21 who have a physical, mental, communicative and/or emotional disability.

Early identification of children in need of special educational experiences is most important to each child.

Furthermore, this information gathered from contacts with parents and other agencies will be used to help determine present and future program needs as progress is made toward the goal of providing a free appropriate public education to all children with a disability. Information which could identify an individual child will be maintained by this agency and will be provided to other agencies only in accord with the Family Rights and Privacy Act and IDEA-B.

As a parent, you are guaranteed the right to inspect any such information about your child and to challenge its accuracy. Access to this information is forbidden to any unauthorized person without informed consent.

If you have questions regarding the collection, maintenance and use of data about your child, please contact Arlene Schambach, Child Find person for Hancock County School District by calling or writing: 6069 Cuevas Town Road, Pass Christian, MS 39571, telephone 255-6626.

The Child Find person implements child identification, location and evaluation of children birth through 21 who have a disability, regardless of the severity of their disability, and who are in need of special education and/or related services.

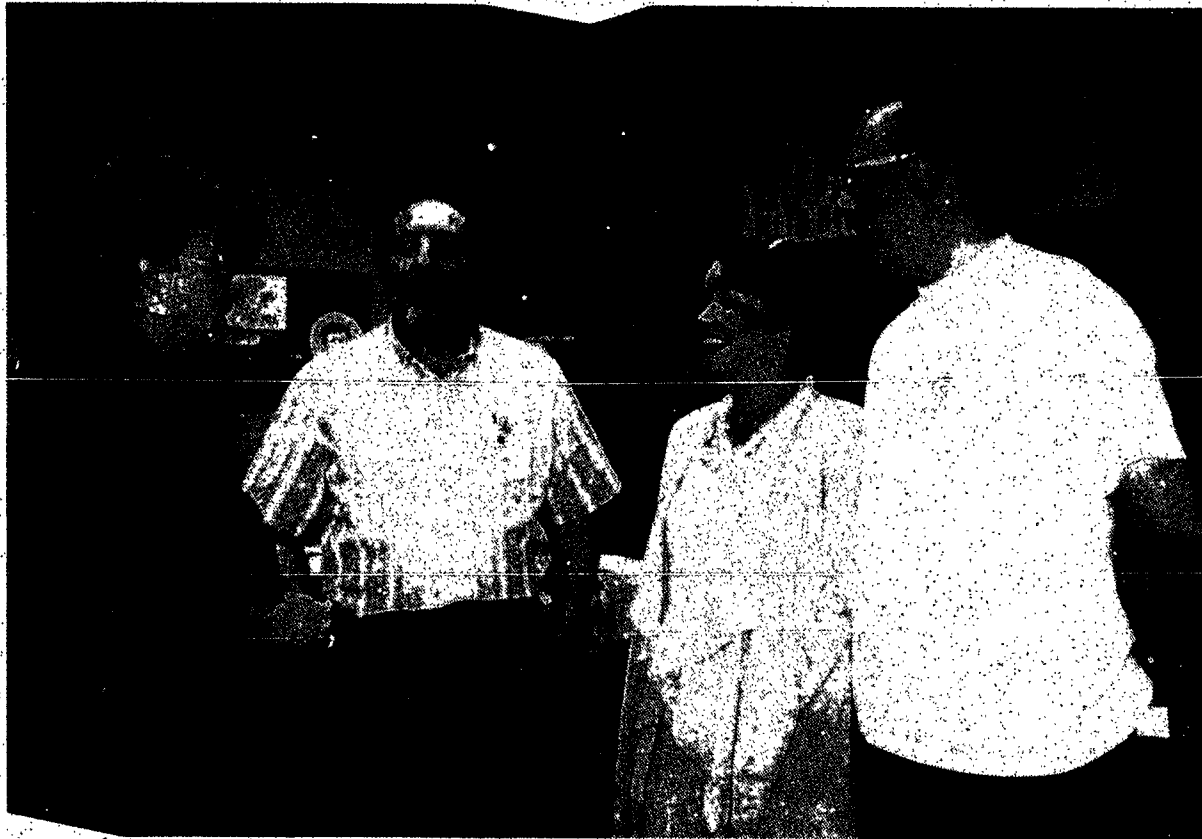

The Child Find person works with the local Head Start, Department of Human Services, Health and Mental Health agencies, as well as local education agencies, physicians and other individuals to identify and locate children out of school and in school who may be in need of special education services.

Once a referral is made, it is the responsibility of the Child Find person to insure that the referral-to-placement process is implemented. The Child Find person works with the Local Survey Committee at each school to implement this process. The following activities briefly describe the procedures:

Prior to evaluation, a copy of the Parent Information Pamphlet and a copy of Procedural Safeguards are given to parents.

District personnel explain the Parent Information Pamphlet to parents and insure that they understand the Procedural Safeguards. After parental consent for testing is obtained, a nondiscriminatory evaluation is conducted. Students are evaluated by qualified personnel in all areas related to the suspected disability.

OLA teachers attend workshop

The faculty of Our Lady Academy recently received staff development training from Myron J. Horn, PhD and Sharon Chiniche, MEd from Gulf Oaks Hospital in Biloxi. Entitled "Teen-age Problems," the workshop included information on suicide, depression, stress, family dysfunction, eating disorders, substance abuse and conflict resolution. Frances Voelkel, left, and John Switzer, right, members of OLA's religious studies department, talk about the workshop with Dr. Horn and Chiniche.

Pass teacher honored

Five Mississippi secondary school educators learned from Dr. Tom Burnham, state superintendent of education, that they have been selected to receive 1995 Milken Family Foundation National Educator Awards along with the accompanying financial award of $25,000 each.

The 1995 Mississippi recipients are Dr. Limmie Flowers, principal of Clinton Junior High School; Dr. Cynthia Wilkins, mathematics teacher at Northwest Ranking Attendance Center in Brandon; Michael Thomas, director of the Choctaw County Vocational Center in Ackerman; Lula Hall, English, history and journalism teacher at LeFlore County High School in Itta Bena; and Linda Jordan, French teacher at Pass Christian High School.

"Mississippi's school teachers and administrators play a most important role in our state — educating and leading our children," Burnham said. "These unsung heroes through their daily efforts make a difference in the lives of our children. Thanks to programs like this, their dedication does not go unnoticed."

"This award intends to make a powerful statement," said Lowell Milken, president of the Milken Family Foundation. "It tells educators that their contribution to our national security is crucial; it tells students that education is a noble and rewarding profession; and it tells society that educators, as the architects of our future, merit the highest respect."

Jordan, a French teacher at Pass Christian High school, received a BA and MA degrees in French and French education, respectively, from the University of Oregon.

A Star Teacher for three years, she has won several outstanding honors. She organized and supervised student exchanges between Notre Dame de Carentan, Normany, France, and the Gulf Coast for dozens of students.

A homebound teacher in her district, she often works weekends and evenings tutoring the homebound students. Jordan said, "If I have expanded a mind or helped a child, then I am a very successful teacher."

When a student is ruled eligible for a special education program, parents are notified. Before the student is placed, an Individualized Educational Program (IEP) is developed for the student and parents sign consent for placement in a special education program.

Parents, teacher(s) and students participate in this process. All students receiving special education services are re-evaluated at least every three years, and their IEPs are revised at least annually.

There are 24 special education classes in the district which serves students who have a physical, mental, communicative and/or emotional disability.

October outdoor adventures at Gulf Islands National Seashore

With cooler temperatures now here, consider an outdoor adventure at Gulf Islands National Seashore. "Outdoor Adventures" is the theme for weekend programs in October. Marsh walks, how to fish, backyard wildlife, and exploring barrier islands are a few of the ranger programs and videos planned for October. All events are free.

On Saturday, Oct. 14, kids and adults can explore another national park here on the Gulf of Mexico. At 2 p.m., enjoy a video journey as Gulf Islands presents "The Everglades!"

On Sunday, Oct. 15, at 2 p.m., explore Davis Bayou up close during Marsh Walk.

Take a video journey 1000 miles due south from Mississippi on Saturday, Oct. 21 at 2 p.m. in the Visitor Center for "Rainforest."

Come back to Gulf Islands on Sunday, Oct. 22 and explore a local crown jewel by way of the Visitor Center auditorium.

Horn Island is 14 miles long and the largest island within Gulf Islands National Seashore.

Living here means surviving extreme heat, storms and drought, but many creatures do, including eagles, alligators and more.

At 2 p.m., park rangers tell how barrier islands are born, change and are home for an amazing variety of creatures during "Horn Island Adventure."

What do you really know about sharks? There are about two dozen species swimming here on the northern Gulf. Watch the famous National Geographic video, "The Sharks," on Saturday, Oct. 28 at 2 p.m.

Could your back yard be a home for wildlife? Come to the Visitor Center Sunday, Oct. 29 at 2 p.m. and discover how to help nature's creatures survive city living.

It's the recipe for attracting birds, mammals and butterflies during "Creating Backyard Wildlife."

The entrance to the Davis Bayou and the William M. Colmer Visitor Center is off Hwy. 90 East in Ocean Springs. For information call (601) 875-9057.

USMGC

Internet training

"Internet: Info Superhighway," a training program in gaining access to the information superhighway, will be available through the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Coast this fall.

The course is planned for USMGC's Gulf Park campus Nov. 17 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. It also will be offered at USMGC's Jackson County center Oct. 16 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

Cost in either location is $79 per student.

For information, call in Long Beach (601) 865-4508 or in Jackson County, (601) 497-5135.

This image is a vertical, high-contrast black and white scan. It is divided into two main vertical sections. The left section is dark and filled with a dense, grainy texture, possibly representing a shadowed surface or a heavily underexposed part of a document. The right section is significantly lighter, appearing as a bright white band, which also exhibits a grainy texture. A sharp, vertical line of separation runs down the center of the image, marking the boundary between the dark and light areas. The overall appearance is that of a degraded or low-quality scan of a physical object or document.
